

WTCA Launches TTT Recertification Online

WTCA's Truss Technician Training (TTT) recertification has a new online tracking and reporting system that makes it easier than ever for certified individuals to qualify for recertification.

The new recertification process is based on a 12-point system, where credits are earned by participating in qualifying industry activities. Those working to renew their certification can create their own customized recertification program by taking part in activities such as those listed.

Recertification Activity	Points
Complete a TTT Recertification Course	3-6 points
Present a Truss Technology Workshop (TTW) or technical seminar	12 points
Attend a WTCA Chapter Meeting	3 points
Attend a Technical or Open Quarterly Meeting	4 points
Attend a Regional Workshop & Conference	6 points
Attend a BCMC Show	6 points
Other customized programs	Case-by-case

Once a qualifying activity is completed, a TTT-certified individual can log in to the TKO site to apply that activity toward his/her recertification. The summary page will show all of the points that have been logged and the status of pending point requests. Additions, edits and deletions to point requests can also be made from this page. Once the information is verified and the request has been reviewed by WTCA staff, points will be approved and added to the individual's total.

Once 12 points have been logged and approved, an automatic link will appear that guides the individual through the final steps of the recertification process.

Featuring the highlights of the past year and a 15-month calendar (Oct 2006 to Dec 2007), the 2006 WTCA Annual Report is the perfect tool for recruiting new (and lapsed) members during the 8th Annual WTCA Membership Drive! At the end of October, the annual reports and a flyer on the membership drive were mailed to all component manufacturing member locations, plus all primary supplier locations. Once again, the membership drive runs until August 31 and offers several great prizes including plaques, jackets, recognition and even WTCA products for the winning chapter (an $800 value)!
